INFORMATION LETTER

Nazarbayev University Library in cooperation with the Association of University Libraries in the Republic of Kazakhstan invites library and information science professionals to Euro-Asia Library Training (EALT). This is a new training program and an advancement on the previous School of Libraries Technologies (SLT). This training is aimed at developing and improving librarians' knowledge and professional competencies concerning all areas of library work. This new innovative program is tailored based on the informational and professional needs of the academic librarians of the Republic of Kazakhstan. The program includes:

- Artificial intelligence literacy
- Teaching & learning support service of the library
- Research support in the library
- Training in advanced technologies and tools
- Knowledge sharing skills development.

The training will take place at Nazarbayev University Library (53 Kabanbay Batyr Ave., Astana, Kazakhstan) on December 2-6, 2024.

The participation fee is 30,000 tenge and will cover admission to the sessions and workshops, coffee break, lunch, handouts, and certificate of attendance.

Information, program, and registration forms are available on the NU library website <https://library.nu.edu.kz/ealt>.
